

PEOPLE ARE OFTEN ELIGIBLE FOR HOSPICE SOONER THAN THEY REALIZE

It can be hard to know when the time is right, but you might ask yourself if you've experienced any of the following:

- Treatments that are no longer helpful or cause negative side effects
- Inability to perform activities of daily living (feeding, bathing, getting dressed, etc.)
- Frequent hospitalizations in the past few months
- A prognosis of "months" rather than "years"
- Significant unintentional weight loss
- A decrease in physical ability and mental cognition

Any of these signs may indicate the time is right for hospice. Taking advantage of hospice sooner rather than later can yield greater benefits for patients and families.

We'll take you under our wing.®
